
What do Parent Support Advisers do?

Parent Support Advisers (PSA) work in partnership with schools and other professionals helping families with children of school age. They give friendly, confidential advice and support.

How will PSAs work with your family?

There are times when your family may need extra support and PSAs will listen and work with you towards your goals to make changes that will achieve positive outcomes for your children. This might be in the form of

- Issues around attendance, homework, morning routines.
- Concerns around bedtime routines and mealtimes.
- Practical advice on managing challenging behaviour while encouraging good behaviour and setting boundaries.

We are not here to judge you or your parenting skills but to provide help and support in any way we can.

HOW DO I GET HELP FROM MY PSA?

Your school may contact you to see if you would like to be put in touch with your PSA. At other times it might be that you like to speak to the PSA for a brief chat to see if further help is needed.

Just contact your Headteacher for more details.
